- Objectives of the Seminar:
  - →Folk games are facing existential crisis today. However, before the advent of games like football and cricket, folk games formed the primary means of entertainment as well as physical and mental development of the rural people of all age groups across men & women. Participation in these games strengthened bonds of friendship and fraternity, which in turn cultivated the sense of community and spirit of collective endeavours among the people. There is a need to sensitize students of the present generation about such games.
- Outcome of the Seminar:
  - → This seminar helped the students in a number of ways. They became aware of the research prospects in studying and analysing the waning out of folk games from the life of people as a negative effect of globalizing world. The various songs and rhymes associated with these games and their role in understanding the socio -economic context was highlighted well by the speaker. They also came to know about the different kinds of folk games and how each kind aided in the development of physical and mental health of men and women as well as children.

Objectives of the Seminar: The word 'apatya' which means a child, who ensures continuation of a generation, applies to both boys and girls. The biological origin of both boys and girls are linked to the father figure in the same manner. Now the question that can be raised here is whether both boys and girls, despite having common origin and upbringing, have equal claims on the property of the father. The property rights of a girl child have long been a subject of debate, as customs and practices across communities and even laws have denied such right. The objective of the seminar is to highlight the issue of equality and inequality in rights and claims of both the genders during the Vedic period, in relation to immovable and movable property with special reference to the idea of Streedhan.

- Outcome of the Seminar: The students were made aware of the property rights of women in the early Vedic period. It was discussed how both the kids of a parent (be it a boy or girl child) were given equal status. No one was discriminated on the basis of their gender. The students understood how the parents gave property rights to their children without any bias and that both the movable and immovable property rights were given to their children regardless of their gender. It was also discussed that if a parent has a girl child and does not beget a boy child, the parents used to consider their first girl child as their "putrika". Following this, if the parent begets a boy child, it is the "putrika" who is given the rights to carry out the funeral rights of her parents. Following this, the idea of "Streedhan" was also discussed in detail where the students understood how the females were given a share of the parental property in the form of "streedhan" during their marriage ceremony. The idea of streedhan gave them the necessary economic security in the Vedic period.

8	OBJECTIVES OF THE SEMINAR	The understanding of the basic tenets of Western Philosophy is an absolute necessity to gain a better understanding of Western Literature. This seminar has been designed to help students make sense of some of the basic schools of thought starting from the Socratic times and extending to Modern and post Modern branches of Philosophy. The target audience consists mainly of the students of the department of English – 2 nd year and 3 rd year UG 3-tier pattern and the newly admitted students of the CBCS system as well. The resource person shall be requested to deliver the talk bilingually so that it is convenient for the students. The flyer shall be circulated at the college level so that students and faculty members from other departments may also attend the seminar according to their need and convenience.
9	OUTCOME OF THE SEMINAR	The seminar was a success. Different students and faculty members from the college attended the seminar. There was an interactive session at the end of the seminar which helped clear certain doubts of the students and helped us understand the different areas of interest and curiosity of the students based on which the department shall be able to organise seminars pertaining to the same area with varied specialisations. The new CBCS pattern introduced across the country has brought in a transdisciplinary inclination in the framework of the syllabi of all subjects. This seminar, additionally, helped the 1st Semester students to get a flavour of how another subject aligns with the subject of their choice to create areas of study they would be able to pursue later.

- Official Notification along with Flyer: Enclosed
- Total Number of Participants: 31
- Objectives of the Seminar: The Seminar aims
  - To keep in forefront a detailed account of some important women of Indian history who defied conventional expectations of women and were ahead of their times.
  - To make student aware of their lofty goals, strong desire, and unwavering resolve to succeed—things that are often overlooked in mainstream historical narrative.
- Outcome of the Seminar: It was a truly engaging session. Students were exposed to a wide range of recent study findings that are not included in the popular historical narratives. Through Professor Oindrila Sen's in-depth presentation, students learned about, Sultan Razia, the most ambitious woman of medieval Indian history, who is not only called "sultan" like her male predecessors, but also dreamt of establishing paramount authority over the royal palace. From Prof. Hembram's presentation, students came to know the two freedom fighters --Phulo Murmu and Jhanu Murmu --who were instrumental in the 1855 Santal Revolt. It broadens their understanding and assists them in discovering new areas of study.
