1. Workshop Date: 21.08.2019
2. Title of the workshop: The Orange Window: A Discussion on Menstrual Health and Hygiene Issues Through Gender Lens
3. Date and Time: 21.08.2019 (Wednesday) 11 am.
4. Venue: College Auditorium
5. Resource Person: Srilekha Chakraborty, Curator Global Shapers Hub Kolkata, and independent gender rights consultant. Email ID: srilekhachakraborty2014@gmail.com
6. Official Invitation Letter: Enclosed
7. Official Notification along with Flyer: Enclosed
8. Total Number of Participants: more than 100
9. Objectives of the Seminar: There are over 355 million menstruating women and girls in India but many tends to undergo cultural and social barriers in understanding menstrual hygiene management. Most girls do not know about menstruation before its onset. Hence the workshop was intended to sensitize college students about menstrual hygiene management. The workshop also enlightened the students about the myths and age-old practices around menstruation. It threw light on other relevant issues like sexual and reproductive health rights, bodily autonomy, and female agency. The environmental hazards around the usage of plastic sanitary pads were discussed. Better alternatives to plastic pads were put forward like bio-degradable materials, reusable cloth pads, and tampons which are cost-effective too.
10. Outcome of the Seminar: The workshop was highly interactive. It provided a barrier-free space for the students to talk about their experiences around their bodies. The interaction helped the students to overcome their pre-conceived notions and build a meaningful dialogue that helped them to break the stigma around menstruation. Students found the workshop helpful. The resource person Srilekha Chakraborty gifted our college Menstrupedia comic book, a period guide to educate girls on menstruation.

- Total Number of Participants: 34
- Objectives of the Seminar: In the Vedas, a compendium of ancient Indian written history, we find mention of marriage as one of the important parts of the sixteen Sanskāra of the domestic (gṛhya) āśrama. In Yajna related Vedic period, married men were empowered for Śrauta Yajna. On that basis, the social importance of marriage is emphasised during this period including the forms of marriage, marital customs as incorporated in Gṛhya Sutras. Besides that, it is from the Vedic marriage system that we learn about the dowry practices which prevailed during this time. Vedic literature also informs whether divorce and remarriage were in practice then. Along with this, marriage practices in the contemporary era will also be discussed in the seminar. The recent changes in the rituals, practices and forms of marriage systems in the contemporary period will be discussed in details making the students have a comparative analysis of the Vedic versus contemporary marriage practices.

- Outcome of the Seminar: The students were extremely interested to know in details about the marriage practices in the Vedic period and the recent changes that are seen in the modern period. They were highly inquisitive to know about the rituals present in the Vedic period and they tried to draw a comparison of those practices with the present-day practices. They wanted to know more about the recent practice of sologamy where an individual can marry himself or herself. They felt empowered understand the concept of court marriage and that arrangement of a social marriage is not mandatory in the present context.

6	OFFICIAL NOTIFICATION ALONG WITH FLYER	Enclosed
7	TOTAL NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS	40
8	OBJECTIVES OF THE SEMINAR	This seminar is aimed at opening up varied perspectives of viewing an event in History which is otherwise an extremely infamous and yet commonplace event in popular History and memory. Charting the impact that the 1947 Partition had on the Society, Culture, Political and economic system and most importantly, how it left a major mark upon Indian Writing in English will be the main point of contention of the Seminar. The respective speakers will be elaborating on the distinctive aspects of Partition as analysed through their disciplinary lens. This seminar is mainly meant to be of use to those students of Literature who have an idea about Indian Literature in English but will be equally intriguing to students of the beginner level as well as students and faculty members of the other departments as it opens up the scope for transdisciplinary research and will also lay bare some methods of cross-disciplinary analytical skills. The resource personnel shall be requested to deliver the talk bilingually so that it is convenient for the students. The flyer shall be circulated at the college level across departments so that students and faculty members may be able to attend the seminar according to their need and convenience.
9	OUTCOME OF THE SEMINAR	The seminar was a grand success and proved to be engaging to different students and faculty members from the college due to the relevance of the topic and the unresolved issues regarding Partition which still plague the collective national memory as pain and nostalgia. There was an interactive session at the end of the seminar which led to some heated debates but also proved to be extremely fruitful as academic exchanges, generating other discussions which were allied to contemporary areas of research with respect to the representation and approach to Partition in English Literature, Bengali Literature, History, Sociology, Political Science and Comparative Literature.

7. Official Notification along with Flyer: Enclosed
8. Total Number of Participants: 58
9. Objectives of the Seminar: The purpose of this seminar is to provide students with knowledge and understanding of an important research technique topic—Fieldwork. To better analytically comprehend how a researcher should conduct fieldwork, the students will be provided with examples from all across the globe. Additionally, it will outline several approaches that students might use to include fieldwork and its various methods and techniques into their sociology dissertations.
10. Outcome of the Seminar: Students were engaged in listening to the discussion since it provided them with a global perspective. The topic provided a comprehensive explanation of fieldwork as a research methodology and its use in the context of sociological study. The students expressed curiosity in the methodology of conducting fieldwork in social contexts in Turkey and drew a connection with the sociological environment in India.

Report of the Seminar

Jhargram Raj College (Girls' Wing)

Department of History

- Seminar Title: Exploring Local History through Archaeological Remains
- Date and Time: 5.02.2020 & 1.30 pm.
- Venue: College Auditorium
- Resource Persons:
 - Prof. Susil Kr Barman, Officer in-charge, Jhargram Raj College (Girls' Wing). Contact Number: 9123350229. Email ID: susilbarman60@gmail.com
 - Prof. Suvasis Acharya, Assistant Professor in Bengali, Jhargram Raj College (Girls' Wing). Contact Number: 8910421108.
- Official Invitation Letter: Enclosed
- Official Notification along with Flyer: Enclosed
- Total Number of Participants: 37
- Objectives of the Seminar:
 - to help students comprehend the role that local history plays in history
 - Importance of Archaeological sources as a way to study human history
 - to familiarise students with the rich cultural history of the Jhargram region dating back thousands of years.
 - to illustrate the different areas that local history writing could investigate.
- Outcome of the Seminar:

Students enjoyed the session very much, as the discussion was very close to their hearts. Essentially, the session was interactive. Students also expressed their personal experiences and took an active part in the conversation. They were enthralled by considering a thorough understanding of Jhargram's historical past and its longstanding relationship with Jainism. They understand how historical facts about an area can be told using stupas, garhs, and pillars. They found the workshop to be motivating since it gave them some ideas about the potential areas of future local history research.
